Key note speaker:

Troy Roderick

Troy is sharing his experience and insights regarding the positive engagement of men in gender equality.

Facilitation questions:

1. How well do we engage men in the conversation here?
2. What ideas can we incorporate into our approach?
3. What insights has Troy provided that can assist us in framing the conversation in a more positive light?

4. What more do we need to do to highlight the benefits to all, rather than just the benefits to women?
5. What can each of us do personally, within our own circle of control, to take the conversation forward in an even more positive way?

Panel of business leaders:

‘What’s in it for men? Strategies and insights for more positively engaging with men on the topic of gender balance’

Facilitation questions – General Group Discussion:

1. Are the benefits for men well communicated and understood in our organisation?
2. How engaged are men in our organisation with the topic? Is there any underlying resentment, fear, concern that has not been addressed?
3. Is there an overall commitment at all levels to achieving better gender balance in the workplace? If not where do we need to focus some effort? Where it do have commitment - what is the key driver?
4. How do you think we can get more men accessing flexible work arrangements?
5. How well do we recognise men who are making a significant difference in driving change and who are leading by example?
6. What insights from the panel could we explore further to help us progress in this space?
7. Which story resonated most from the panel?
8. What are the 3 key takeaways from this panel discussion that could really help us move our strategy forward?
